SPEAKS ON IMPERILED ART BEFORE WOMAN'S CLUB

Reception Tendered Mrs. Lucy Daniel Cautley—Art Club Showing Pictures by William L. Sheppard.

A large audience of members and their guests filled the parlors of the Woman's Club yesterday afternoon to hear Mrs. Lucy Daniel Cautley on "Perilous and Imperiled Art." Mrs. Cautley was formerly Miss Daniel, of Richmond, and the club was thronged with her friends to welcome her to the city. She is a very intellectual and traveled woman, and her lecture sketched in some detail the history of art in Europe and the great loss the world has suffered in the recent destruction of such treasures. The speaker stated that she would only touch the salient points of interest, the first of which was architecture. She mentioned the great temples and cathedrals of Europe, and the reverence in which they have been held throughout the centuries.

Mrs. Cautley, who has been on the Continent all the past summer months, concluded her address with a plea that the women should set the standards and the seal of their approval upon peace, as well as upon progress in war. Mrs. Preston Cooke poured coffee for the informal reception following the lecture, and Mrs. John W. Harrison presided at the table. Captain A. B. Guilford presented Mrs. Cautley to her audience in a very happily-wedded little speech, welcoming her there on behalf of the club.

At the Art Club. Rev. James Power Smith, D. D., will speak at the Art Club this afternoon at 4:30 o'clock, and tea will be served by the house committee after his talk. The exhibition of pictures by W. L. Sheppard now being held at the club, which is open to visitors every day this week, will also be open on Friday night.

Fashion's Decree

To-day's Dress Hint, with authentic note as to style and fabric.

Black satin and white taffeta combine effectively in this afternoon costume. The fitted skirt is trimmed with two-inch bias bands of black satin, and the same material forms the shirred bodice. Of course, the dominant finish for the neck of any dark satin waist is a collar of fine linen. An artificial rose appears on one side of the collar. The costume requires 4 1/2 yards of black satin and 2 yards of 4 1/2-inch black taffeta.

Pictorial Review Waist No. 5930. Sizes, 32 to 44-inch bust. Price, 15 cents. Skirt No. 5812. Sizes, 20 to 30-inch waist. Price, 15 cents.

The pattern will be mailed to any address by The Times-Dispatch Pattern Department on receipt of price.

Church. Miss McEvoy rendered the choral chorus from "Lohengrin" as a prelude, and other appropriate selections during the ceremony, which was performed by Rev. Father Charles, assisted by Rev. Father Dominic and Rev. Father Brennan. The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Alexander Herbert. She was wearing a gown of white tulle and lace, with a long veil of lace held in place by a wreath of orange blossoms, and she carried a bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley. Her maid of honor, Miss Hilda Herbert, wore pink satin with a tulle of chiffon trimmings of lace and French embroidery. Her bridesmaid was of Killarney roses. The church was decorated in ferns and chrysanthemums.

Henry W. O'Grady, brother of the groom, was best man, and the ushers were Walter Herbert, George Herbert, and Frederick P. Fletcher, Jr.

A reception immediately after the ceremony was held at the home of Mrs. O'Grady, after which Mr. and Mrs. O'Grady left for a wedding tour of Boston and other Northern points. Out-of-town guests here for the ceremony were Miss Margie McAllister, of Washington, and Miss Maher, of Pittsburgh, Pa.

MLLE. PAVLOWA DESCRIBES NEWEST SOCIETY DANCE. Gives instructions for Forward and Back Walk, and Position for One Step. ARTICLE I.—THE ONE-STEP. (By Anna Pavlova.)

My one-step differs somewhat from that of the last season. There is no swaying of the body. Stand erect in "closed position," arms at shoulder height and hands near their bodies. The dance has six divisions.

First, lady moves forward on the first count, instead of back, as customary. The accompanying photograph in the salute, which comes on the fourth beat of the music just before the "one" count. It would be counted as follows: three, salute, begin. The actual one-step commencing on the first musical beat in the measure.

Either eight or four steps are taken. On the first step, a long lunge, the dancer should permit both her knees to drop slightly; the second, third and fourth in units of four (on which the one-step is based) will be shorter steps, thus accounting the first beat. First, lady moves forward on the first count, instead of back, as customary. The accompanying photograph in the salute, which comes on the fourth beat of the music just before the "one" count. It would be counted as follows: three, salute, begin. The actual one-step commencing on the first musical beat in the measure.

So, as the dancers progress, it is one, two, three, four; one, two, three, four. The cavalier starting back on his left in a step on the ball of his foot of about eight or nine inches, making a slight dip on both knees to correspond with that of his lady. The second division is a side glide that may be used either for a half or a complete turn. The third introduces a polka variation and is executed by the partners in a "half-open" position.

FORWARD AND BACKWARD.

Photograph especially posed for by Mlle. Pavlova and her partner, M. Clustine.

Division four introduces a "crossover" change, in which the partners change positions from side to side; while division five and six consist of more original figures. One quite tangential, and one almost Russian.

The above article is the first of an illustrated series by Anna Pavlova, the premiere ballerina of the St. Petersburg Imperial Opera, on the new social dances. The photographs are of her and her partner, Ivan Clustine (maitre de ballet of the Imperial Opera houses in St. Petersburg, Moscow and the Paris Grand Opera).

Give Yourself a Fair Deal

BY LILLIAN RUSSELL.

Give yourself a fair deal. This may, at first, sound like a peculiar suggestion. Self-preservation is one of the primary laws of nature. Selfish instincts are generally sufficiently developed to make people try for a square deal for themselves. Yet these people cannot see themselves through the eyes of others. Through thoughtlessness they may neglect to put their best foot forward.

First impressions are made by the personal appearance. The eye is quick to act. It records its impressions. They are difficult to erase. It is worth your while to calculate on the first impression you make. Sometimes primary impressions are so unfavorable that there is no opportunity for a second. When all committees and factories, where a charge of stations for Badge Day are urged to be present.

There is no woman so ugly but that her appearance can be improved by study and care. It is a duty every woman owes to herself to bring out the best features of her face and figure. It is in this way that she can give herself a "square deal."

Your hands may be naturally beautiful, but if neglected others will merely see them as they are. As they might be. If neglected, hands wrought havoc with your complexion, others will see it as it is and not as it was or as it could be made.

Wear. If you are careless and do not devote enough time to the selection of becoming gowns, others will see you in the costumes you wear and not in the ones you might have selected.

Remember, beauty is only skin deep, but that is as far as the eye penetrates, and the eye records first impressions.

Lillian Russell's Answers.

E. W.: The eyes require the greatest care upon arising in the morning or after any exposure to wind, dust or sun. Bathe the eyes in tepid water in which a little salt has been sprinkled, making the water about as salty as tears. The best method of bathing the eyes is with an eye cup. Cold tea leaves are a great healer to tender eyelids, and will keep the eyelids smooth and firm. If you will send me a stamped, addressed envelope, I shall send you a formula for an excellent eye wash.

H. A.: There is nothing one can do to reduce the knuckles when the bones are large. Nothing will make a bone smaller. However, I am sure you can cover up this defect by massage with warm olive oil each night or a good skin food. This will feed the skin and make the knuckles more plump. Rub the oil well into the knuckles each night before retiring, and allow a portion of it to remain on all night.

Dr. Brady's Health Talks

Rheumatism or Rheum It Isn't.

No less than a score of different joint diseases, each with a different cause and requiring different treatment, masquerade under the broad, easy-going title of "rheumatism." With some contented souls it is enough to realize that there is something wrong in or about the joints. With that fact firmly established, many more plump, plump long enough between cures to write a testimonial, perchance, but never desisting of hitting upon a panacea some fine day. If it were not for the patent medicine advertisements—some of which

IS like joy riding on a steam roller. You lose most of the exhilaration. Fox-Trot Hats have the grace and beauty and ginger of youth; they ride the fox-trotter's head proudly like a viking of the sea. No danger or possibility of mishap; they fit snugly.

Take note of the beautiful Hats, all "trotters"—the flame-reds, the snowy white, white as the Dove of Peace; the charming tones of rose, the aristocratic pale Hats of the color of sand.

Close-fitting, snug shapes and medium sailors, trimmed in keeping with the spirit of the dance. Fur and flowers and colors—these are the raw materials from which deft fingers mold and fashion the "beau chapeau." The frock Dansant really must find its compliment in the proper Hat. Yet, how often is it not so? Echo answers, "Often."
